From mass-market to hospitals, my barcode life for the past 30 years!

Francois Bisch, Logistics Engineer, Centre Hospitalier Universitaire du Pointe-à-Pitre, Guadeloupe / France

From mass-market to hospital

Beginning of the 80's

- Working in a washing powders and soaps company for mass-market distribution
  - Mandate product identification using standards (Gencod-EAN)
  - Necessary high quality barcodes printings
- World wild supply chain evolution

Middle of the 90's

Statement

- In the little night grocery's shop near the hospital, they can read a barcode at the checkout check the inventory and launch a production order on the other side of the world as soon as reorder point is reached.

- The hospital use fax orders with the major pharmaceutical suppliers....
